TECHNICAL DETAILS

The Estate

San Huberto is a large-scale winery that produces its award-winning wines in Argentina. One of their production facilities is located in Mendoza, in a beautiful town of Lujan de Cuyo, the second Argentinian location has roots in the lush Aminga Valley of La Rioja. The history of San Huberto dates back to 1905. A large business group, with 70 years of economic history in Argentina, owns the winery.

Wine Making

Utilizing the exceptional microclimate and fertile soils, San Huberto Winery cultivates an enormous range of grapes, Malbec holding the place as king of the vineyards.

Food Suggestions

Pairs well with beef and venison based dishes.

TASTING NOTES

Red wine of deep ruby red color, with dark violet hues and intense tears. On the nose there is an intense red fruit aroma with notes of coffee and vanilla. The wine is well-balanced and quite spicy, with a good structure. It shows some complexity, with sweet tannins and a long-lasting finish.

Malbec grape blend.

This wine contains allergens, sulfites.
