CONTINO BLANCO RIOJA

RIOJA • SPAIN • EUROPE

TECHNICAL DETAILS

The Estate

The Contino white wine is produced from Viura and Garnacha Blanca grapes. The Garnacha Blanca grape is harvested from the San Gregorio Encina estate, planted in 1980 on calcareous clay soil. The Viura comes from different areas of Contino, including the alluvial soils of the old Lentisco estate, the stony soils of the San Gregorio La Tabla, and the Santa María estate. All the vineyards are between 35 and 40 years old.

Wine Making

The Garnacha Blanca comes from the San Gregorio plot which was planted in 1980 and whose soils are calcareous clay. The Viura comes from different parts of Contino, from the alluvial, old pagoof Lentisco, from the stony San Gregorio La Tabla and from La Finca de Santa María. All of these vines are between 35 and 40 years old.

Food Suggestions

Pairs well with shellfish, appetizers, snacks, lean fish, and cured meat.

TASTING NOTES

Contino Blanco 2020 shows a very intense nose, marked by its aging in barrel. It is fresh and fruity wine, a true reflection of the identity of our vineyard. San Gregorio offers us a Garnacha Blanca with great complexity and volume.

A Viura & Garnacha Blanca grape blend.

This wine contains allergens, sulfites.
